

DEMOCRATS EXPECT ROOSEVELT TO RUN AGAIN

British Prepared, Churchill Asserts, For Nazi Invasion

Nation Ready Not Only For Long War, But Awaits Day When She Can Take Offensive Against Hitler Armies

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, July 15.—Britain, ready for a long war and waiting for the day when she can seize the offensive, ordered today the removal of 6,500 more children from southeastern coastal areas in anticipation of the German invasion which Prime Minister Churchill told the nation to expect anytime.

Even as plans were rushed to get the children to inland havens, German bombers continued their feeling-out process.

Fatal bombs rained on a south coast town. A brief communique said the raiders destroyed some houses and caused a small number of casualties, "some of which were fatal."

A German attacker dropped four bombs over Wales, three of the missiles falling in the water and the fourth without damage on open ground.

Discuss Thames Defense
The Thames conservancy board discussed defense of the vital river gateway to London at a secret session. The board chairman disclosed it was aiding the air force in damming "certain rivers."

Great Britain, "a great nation with a will power" the equal of Germany's, is ready for a long war and waiting for the day, even if it should not come until 1942, when she can take the offensive herself.

So Prime Minister Churchill informed the world last night in a "fight talk" picturing Britain as armed more powerfully on land, at sea and in the air than at any time in her history.

Churchill spoke of the strength of the British army, "a million and a half men under arms," of the home guard, "more than a million" volunteers ready to destroy parachutists, airborne invaders and any traitors that may be found in our midst," of the Royal Air Force and fighter command, which have "shot down more than five to one" of German planes attacking convoys, and Britain herself, ready to protect any part of the empire, "with over a thousand armed ships under the white ensign patrolling the seas."

Looks Far Beyond
Then, looking beyond the "im-pending assault," which he said "undimmed," he asked, "why do I dwell on all this?"

"Not, surely, to induce any slackening of effort or vigilance," he said.

"On the contrary, these must be redoubled and we must prepare not only for the summer but for the winter, not only for 1941 but for 1942, when the war will, I trust, take a different form from the defensive in which it has hitherto been bound."

Even as he spoke, Britain issued a new tally of that "defensive" war. In the air, she claimed five Nazi bombers and two escorting fighters brought down during an attack on a ship convoy in the Dover straits yesterday. One R. A. E. plane was lost then. R. A. F. raiders Saturday night struck at 14 airmodes and other military objectives in Germany, Holland and Belgium and downed one Nazi defending plane.

INCENDIARISM IS HINTED IN SEBRING FIRES

Two More Blazes Extinguished By Firemen Over Weekend

SEE EVIDENCE OF "FIREBUGS" HAND

Lighted Oil Flare Found Under Porch Of Home On Twelfth St.

SEBRING, July 15.—The possibility that a "firebug" is operating in Sebring was seen by residents here today following the discovery of evidence of incendiarism in two recent fires in Sebring homes.

Firemen who extinguished a blaze early Saturday morning in the Burgess home on S Twelfth st. were the first to suspect that a "firebug" is working in this area.

Chief Frank Timmer reported that a lighted oil flare, such as is used on highways to guard open ditches or stalled motor vehicles, was found under the back porch of the Burgess home.

Damage to the Burgess property was confined to the porch and amounted to about $25, the chief said. A neighbor discovered the blaze before it had an opportunity to make much headway.

Family Not at Home
The Burgess family was not at home at the time the fire was discovered. Chief Timmer said the family was visiting in Detroit.

Suspicious of incendiarism were aroused again early Sunday morning when firemen were called to the home of Joseph Hampton of E. Oregon ave. to extinguish a fire which destroyed outbuildings and damaged the rear of the house.

No definite evidence of incendiarism was uncovered at the Hampton home, but Mayor Bandy declared today that circumstances surrounding the blaze hint of possible "firebug" tactics.

The fire at the Hampton home was confined to the outbuildings and rear of the house by the quick work of firemen who were notified by members of the family. No estimate of the damage was available.

Mayor Bandy said fire insurance companies holding policies on the two homes are expected to conduct an investigation of the suspicious evidence uncovered by firemen.

Seen as Harmony Move
Robert N. Gorman of Cincinnati, former Ohio supreme court judge, nominated Sawyer, declared his "re-election will promote harmony and victory for the entire Democratic ticket in Ohio."

Former Gov. Martin L. Davey, whom Sawyer defeated in 1938 for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, then moved to close the nominations and cast a unanimous ballot for Sawyer. Davey said he wanted to do "everything in my power" to promote harmony.

T. Miller, Cuyahoga county leader, seconded Davey's motion, which was adopted.

Robert J. Bulkeley, former U. S. senator, nominated Mrs. Jaster, and Miller provided the second. Miss Ann Duffey, former secretary to Herbert S. Duffey, ex-attorney general of Ohio, announced she wanted to support Mrs. Jaster, and the re-election then was made unanimous. Miss Duffey had been mentioned as an opposition candidate for the post.

Delegates Waver
The Poulson decision not to introduce an opposition slate came after some delegates were found wavering from a pledge to support Walter F. Heer, Franklin county Democratic chairman, for Sawyer's post. A Poulson spokesman said a deciding factor was the reluctance of Cleveland district delegates to oppose Sawyer, the Ohio delegation's "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination.

The elections took place just before the convening of the first session of the Democratic national convention today.

While Poulson directed Davey's campaigns for governor, Davey, again the Democratic candidate this year, insisted he took no part in the committee fight preceding today's caucus.

"I am here as a delegate and to say 'amen' to what the convention decides," Davey observed. "On all other matters, no comment."

Three Are Arrested By Highway Patrol

Drivers of two automobiles and a semi-trailer truck were arrested by state highway patrolmen of the Salem barracks Saturday for violations of motor vehicle laws.

The East Palestine justice of the peace also heard the case of George Werl of Pittsburgh, who was fined $25 and costs for speeding.

Flusher and Werl were arrested by Patrolmen C. W. Cale and Cornelius Osepke who was on patrol duty near East Palestine.

Orville Lust of R. D. 1, Chatfield, charged with driving an overlength truck, was fined $25 and costs by Mayor Sloan of Ravenna. State Patrolmen H. W. Lewis and C. W. Cale, who arrested Lust, charged that the load on his truck extended six feet over the 40-foot limit fixed by motor vehicle laws.

Farley, In Meantime, Says He's Still In Race For Nomination

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 15.—Democrats whose pockets were crammed with third term pledges gathered for their national convention in Chicago stadium today convinced that President Roosevelt would accept renomination.

This viewpoint persisted among the crowds jamming gaily decorated hotel lobbies, even though close friends of the chief executive quoted him as saying he was "not a candidate."

The strategy for delivering up a "draft" nomination to the president, however, had not been firmly fixed up to the time for National Chairman James A. Farley to open the first convention session.

Farley Keeps Name In
Farley kept his own name in the presidential race, saying he assumed that his pledged Massachusetts delegates would support him. Some in that group, though, announced that they would vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

The general belief that the President would run left speculation free to roam through vice presidential possibilities and into the field of foreign affairs, where there still was not certainty and an argument might not develop.

Here the name of Secretary Hull rose into high prominence. Many said he would be the man to whom Mr. Roosevelt might turn as his running mate. They based this belief on the European war crisis and the efforts of Mr. Roosevelt to develop a hemispheric solidarity.

Roos "Good Neighbor" Policy
Secretary Hull has had more to do with the development of the "good neighbor" policy with Latin America than most of the others in the administration. He traveled to several Pan-American conferences, and will attend the one opening in Havana Saturday.

Those booming Hull for the vice presidency argued that his nomination would be a token to Latin America that the "good neighbor" policy would be continued by the Democrats.

Still others were arguing, however, that for the sake of party solidarity, Vice President Garner should be renominated.

But the town was filled with potential vice presidential candidates. They were to be seen from the edges of Michigan boulevard all the way into the middle of the loop.

Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, federal security administrator, wandered among the plush furnishings of a palatial hotel suite shaking hands with all comers. He has withdrawn from the presidential race unless Mr. Roosevelt renounces another nomination.

Confer With Press
Speaker Bankhead held a press conference. So did Chairman Farley. Senator Byrnes of South Carolina was in evidence. Jesse H. Jones of Texas, who runs lending agencies of the federal government was

WHAT'S THE ALTERNATIVE?

Hearings on a proposed bill to make military training compulsory in peacetime, instead of waiting till an aggressor starts a war, seem to indicate two general trends of opinion.

Men directly concerned with national defense frankly admit compulsory military training is essential, there being no other way to obtain the quantity and quality of manpower needed to develop the country's potential strength. The United States is the only important nation in the world which has been able to avoid military training; it has been able to do this because the British navy guaranteed it against invasion from abroad.

Men who tend to be more interested in civil liberties than in national defense on the other hand are worried lest compulsory military training create unpleasant complications. This amounts to saying they are afraid to practice with the sword for fear of cutting themselves. They lack confidence in America's ability to survive military training, but do not explain how America can expect to survive in a world of force without military training.

There is only one question in the compulsory military training issue. If it isn't going to be compulsory military training what is it going to be? The country is wide open to any reasonable suggestion for an alternative which will do the job as well or better.

NO COMPROMISE WITH TREACHERY

Experts have done wonders with the meaning of words, proving that the best way to make friends and influence people is the right language. They've even told New Dealers how by substituting investment spending and so on for nasty words like debt and wasting they can make the public think all that red ink is the juice of the vine or something.

But let's have no compromise with reality on so vital a matter as treachery. The habit has grown up lately of substituting "fifth columnist" for "traitor." Unfortunately, a lot of otherwise well informed persons vaguely suppose a fifth columnist is a fellow who fills in for a fourth columnist on his day off. Some of them kid each other about being fifth columnists; they wouldn't think of making a laughing matter about being traitors.

This isn't immediately serious. Perhaps, it isn't serious at all, except as it hints of relaxation in certain principles which men have stood by for centuries. The fifth columnists who have helped destroy one nation after another in Europe are traitors and spies. They are not semi-respectable merely because cloaked by a label which sounds better than the one they deserve. Fortunately, "fifth column" seems to be on the way out; it was worked to death. It will clear the decks to get back to calling traitors and spies by their right names.

VICTIMS OF ABUSE

The new secretaries of the war and navy departments have managed to keep smiling since their appointment by President Roosevelt on June 20. Being human, they probably felt like doing something else.

Some of their countrymen have been staging a shameful exhibition at their expense. Col. Simson and Col. Knox have been victims of crude abuse of the right to be critical.

Because they consented to serve their country in difficult posts in a period of stress, they were read out of the Republican party accused plotting to get the United States into war, and subjected to a humiliating cross-fire of cynicism and skepticism.

President Roosevelt, who appointed them, was charged with every motive except the worthy motive of wanting to equip two vital departments with outstanding leadership which would lift them above partisan politics.

Perhaps nothing which has happened recently has shown more clearly how far American politics has drifted into the old world error of substituting cynicism for patriotism, bickering for statesmanship, doubt for conviction.

If Colonels Simson and Knox had excused themselves and told their countrymen to find some other targets for their muddled spleen they couldn't have been blamed much. As it is, they're to be congratulated for their forbearance.

IT CREAKS

Illusion, the secret of the theater, has a lot to do with politics too. The people's imagination must be appealed to along with their appetites, wants and ambitions, or the show's a flop.

The Democratic party currently is preoccupied with creating for the American voting public the illusion that it is drafting Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third nomination as its presidential candidate.

Mr. Roosevelt has been helping along the illusion by seeming to be unaware of what is going on. Like Little Eva, who just floated into the stage left without trying, the President is just being carried away by superior forces.

But the illusion lacks something. The pulleys creak, and the wires show. There isn't a Republican, an independent, a child over six, not even a Democrat who is fooled. If President Roosevelt is being carried off by a supernatural force to a new precedent then Little Eva wasn't hoisted into immortality by an ingenious system of wires and pulleys.

CONFLICT, confusion and secrecy are observed in this day's astral chart. While there is a decided sign of benefit, with generous and expansive influence of enhancement, growth, financial gain as well as personal popularity and prestige, yet there is need of precaution, shrewdness or strategy to attain such desirable objectives. Writings, papers, and both business and social correspondence seems to be at the root of duplicity or craft, so be alert to all forms of subtlety. Be vigilant with friends involved in finances and keep restrained.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of intrigue, deception, fraud or tricky entanglements unless they exert ceaseless vigilance and precaution, even in transactions involving friends. There may be peculiar developments or hazards with the most trusted of friends, and that concerning the affections as well as financial matters. Some decided benefits may be accomplished by shrewdness and watchfulness. There should be an expansive year, with personal popularity and many social pleasures. Be particularly careful with all correspondence and documents.

A child born on this day may be extravagant and generous to a fault, thereby being easily victimized financially and imposed on in sentimental relations. Special training in thrift and integrity would not be amiss.

Urges Wearing Of Glasses
To Save Eyes From GlareBy LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
What is the health value of dark glasses?

ALL EYES except those that are blind and useless are sensitive to light and especially glare. Over-sensitivity to light usually is dependent on some form of eye-strain.

In bright summer sunlight the eyes are assaulted by glare coming from all directions. It is reflected from the pavement, the water and the sand, and comes towards the retina from below, adding to the direct diffused light from the sky and air. In automobile driving this reflected glare is particularly trying.

We have now an almost perfect sunglass made from polaroid, a film-like material containing countless needle-like minute crystals arranged parallel to each other. A thin sheet of this is laminated between two glasses to make lenses. It is now possible also to obtain sun glasses which can be fitted for astigmatism and relieve eyestrain. Also fitted with adaptation for strong or weak sunlight.

They should be used by all automobile tourists, as well as fishermen for sailing and boating.

"TITAN TOWER" by JAMES G. CHESNUTT

STORY SO FAR

Drawn together as they aid accident victim atop Titan Tower, new skyscraper, Nurse Linda Morton and Dr. Bill Blaine sense mutual affection. With memories of her love for late Airman Mike Morton still warm, however, Linda feels very mixed emotions as she day-dreams of possible romance with the debonair young medic. After her harrowing roof-top experience, Linda returns home, unnerved. Her mind goes back to that tragic night when Mike was killed in a crash. After his death, no word of sympathy came for Linda from Mike's wealthy parents who disapproved of her marriage. So when Mickey was born she did not let them know. Linda's reverie is interrupted by the arrival of her friends, naive Janice Marberry and sophisticated Josephine Monroe. Speaking of the accident, Linda asks if they know Blaine. She learns from Jo he is in the Social Register and his father owns Titan Tower. The matchmaking Jo detects that Linda is more than professionally interested in Bill and Bill Blaine are interested in GIRLS, not mothers. Linda says she will never deny Mickey but later that night, she is torn between love for her son and a young woman's yearning for romance. Next day, at lunchtime, Linda goes up to the roof garden hoping to meet Bill. He is not there but pleasant-faced Steve Hubbard is. He asks Linda if the chair he is sitting in is taken. Thinking it is the old approach, she coldly replies, "Yes. You seem to have taken it." But she cannot help but smile when he comes back with, "You should post signs to keep out the riff-raff."

CHAPTER TEN

"You'll have to forgive me," he said, and Linda noted for the first time that his voice, low and well modulated, had laughter in it like his face. "This is my first trip to Palm Beach and I guess the altitude sort of got me. The name is Steve Hubbard. I'm from the other side of the tracks, way down in the foundations of this here upright city."

"Forgiven," Linda smiled. "The name is Linda Morton. Uppercrust Linda of the twenty-fifth floor."

Steve had dragged his chair out from behind the palm, and Linda had seen that the neat brown suit was covered by a white smock of some kind.

"Nurse?" Steve asked.

"Sort of," Linda nodded. "Doctor?"

Steve's grin broadened at that one.

"Well, yes and no," he answered. "You might say I'm a sort of specialist. I guess I have the biggest practice in Titan Tower—and the biggest patients. Variety of complaints from bad pumps to leaking valves."

"On," Linda said, understandingly, "Heart."

"Funny," said Steve, "you took the thought right out of my mind. I was beginning to feel the symptoms."

HE IS fresh, Linda thought, and felt the color rush to her face. But fresh in a way that it was difficult to resist. She looked at her watch and said, "It's lovely here, but my hours' up. If I don't get back to my job, I may not have any."

As she walked toward the stairs Steve fell into step beside her. She felt that he was tall, not like Bill Blaine, but tall enough.

"Goodbye," Steve said. "Do you get down to—I should say up to—Palm Beach often?"

"Quite often," Linda smiled, "if you count just once. This is my first trip—no pleasure."

"Maybe," said Steve, "we'll meet again."

Whether they did or not was not in Linda's mind as she went back to Dr. Thorpe's office. Steve was forgotten before she had taken ten steps down the stairs. In his place were two feelings of emptiness. She had not eaten, and—more important—she had not seen Dr. Blaine.

Linda was literally up to her elbows in bills she was getting out for Dr. Thorpe several hours later. She was tired and frowning and felt she must have looked at her very worst when the door opened and she glanced up to see the outline of a tall man entering.

"Will you be seated just a moment, please?" she asked, meaning to finish a difficult total before talking to the patient.

Standing in front of her desk and smiling down at her, with an amused twinkle in his eyes, was Bill Blaine.

"Hello, there," he said. Just that. "Oh," said Linda, "hello."

Why, she mused inwardly, could she not command more than a stupid stage whisper?

"Well, said Dr. Blaine, "this is a pleasant surprise, Miss Morton—it is Miss Morton, isn't it?"

"Yes," Linda said, letting a half-truth do for the whole. Well, the "Morton" part was right, anyway. "I just dropped in to see Dr. Thorpe on a professional matter."

Dr. Blaine explained, as though an explanation were needed, "You know, I wouldn't have known your name, after all your fine work up there yesterday, if it hadn't appeared in the papers. You're quite the leading lady of Titan Tower today."

"Thank you, Dr. Blaine," Linda said. "I'll tell Dr. Thorpe you're here."

"No, don't bother," Blaine said quickly. "It's not vitally important. I'll just walk in on him later—that is, if you're not too busy to be pestered for a few minutes."

"Pestered?" Linda's eyebrows arched, in a pattern Bill Blaine decided was plenty effective.

"Well," he went on, "I haven't had a chance to thank you adequately for everything you did to help Dr. Renquist and me up there yesterday. And it seems that this chance visit has given me just the right opportunity. I know our poor friend of the accident would want me to thank you, too."

"That's very generous of you, doctor," Linda said. "I'm afraid you're over-emphasizing my part. I just did a nurse's job, that's all."

Why was it all so silly and stilted and formal, Linda asked herself. That wasn't the way she had pictured it, at all.

Why couldn't he say: "Lin, you were swell!" and why couldn't she rush to him and say: "I'd do it again—any place, hanging from a skyhook, even—to be near you."

I know now, she told herself, that that's the way I feel. But things just don't happen that way, I guess.

Dr. Blaine said:

"We're all very proud of you."

Dr. Blaine thought: "Boy! She's lovelier than I thought even yesterday. Why did it take me so long to find out she was in Thorpe's office?"

Linda wasn't psychic, but at that exact moment, as though she had read his thoughts, the color mounted in her already flushed face. Blaine noticed it.

"Say, young lady," he commented, "looks like you've had a touch of the sun!"

Must look like a lobster, Linda thought, a bedraggled, second-hand lobster, with scraggly wisps of hair for feelers.

"It was your prescription, doctor," she said, managing what passed for a smile. "You remarked yesterday that you had been wanting to try out the new solarium on the roof. I did. And now look at me."

Bill Blaine didn't need the invitations. He had been doing just that—and very approvingly.

"Tch, tch," he tutted. "You didn't read the prescription right. I didn't prescribe a double dose. I said small doses daily—for two. How about it tomorrow noon—if you recovery?"

"I'll see," Linda smiled. "You're probably in for it. I'm afraid I'll recover."

"Tomorrow, then at noon," Blaine said. "Don't forget."

And he was gone.

Don't forget, Linda, don't forget. As though she could forget. He'd done it; he WAS interested. Maybe it would be better if she would forget—forget him, before it was too late. But Linda didn't want to forget.

His eyes were even nicer than she had remembered them, Linda mused. And he couldn't have been any other way than formal and dignified. That became him like a well-tailored suit. Not like Mike; not gay and irresponsible and foot-loose. Not like Mike....

Linda's racing thoughts were brought up in an abrupt halt. There was always Mickey; Mickey and the text of Jo Monroe's lecture of the night before, an argument about which Linda had tried not to think.

She thought a lot about it that night, as she tossed in fitful sleep; thought about Jo's premise of "play smart and play single;" thought about; Bill Blaine and a rooftop and sunshine as warm as the feeling in her heart.

And then, suddenly, it was tomorrow—and she and Bill Blaine were on the rooftop, together again. Not under the dramatic, action-crammed circumstances of their first meeting but in placid, tranquil nearness to each other. Well, not placid, exactly if you counted the beating of Linda's heart.

"Look at that view, Linda," Blaine said.

It was "Linda" already. All the formality and dignity in the world couldn't keep him from pronouncing her name that way—caressingly. He was still "Dr. Blaine," however. After all, no matter how you felt, you didn't call a doctor "Bill" on the third glorious day you've known him.

Front Wheel Alignment Adds Safety And Cuts The Cost Of Car Operation

Take Your Car To Pennzoil Before That Vacation Trip

Members of that large group who are somewhat careless in the matter of inspection and regular servicing of their cars take advantage of the careful attention given an auto at the Pennzoil Service Center modern service station, corner of W. State and Jennings ave.

Take a tip from car owners who are out to get the full measure of the efficient service given at this 24-hour station. Drive to the large station or telephone and have an employee pick up the car at your home or place of business.

There is a great difference between the old auto shop, which did the best it could with limited equipment to satisfy the customer, and the modern service station, such as that operated by the Pennzoil Service Center in which cars receive attention of the utmost precision. The famous Check-Chart system is used to thoroughly inspect the operation of a car.

Best Lubricants
Work of the well-trained, up-to-date service man at this station is thorough and dependable. He uses the correct lubricants for engine, transmission and rear axle. Considered the best for their respective duties, Pennzoil lubricants are used at the station.

Employees at the station check the cooling system, the electric equipment, the fuel system, ignition and other vital parts. Battery and tires are checked. The station has complete sales and service department for batteries and tires. All this work is done according to scientific standards and the instructions of engineers.

Perhaps all the work to change a car from a sluggish condition to the proper condition for summer driving has not been done. This seasonal condition is very important. It should be done before that

Complete Checkup Should Be Essential Before Vacation

There's no need to have dangers, which can be prevented, lurking along the vacation trail. The trip can be free from worry and possible delays along the road by having the car checked before starting out. Such a method of looking after the car undoubtedly will mean more money to spend on vacation fun while on the road.

Expert mechanics and the modern equipment are placed at the disposal of a customer when a car is driven to the Beitler's Auto Service in Damascus. If a complete motor and chassis check-up is desired, every detail is cared for.

A late model motor analyzer was added recently to the modern devices used at the garage. This truly x-ray machine detects all troubles arising from compression, ignition and carburetion system of a car. A complete motor diagnosis is made possible as the analyzer shows proper operations as well as incorrect functions.

After the analyzer and its attachments have been used on the motor, battery, spark plugs, generator and carburetor, a mechanic can tell immediately the exact operating efficiency of an auto. The owner, too, can see easily how proper or improper operation of vital parts is revealed.

ADDS TO AUTO'S TIRE MILEAGE

Matt Klein Invites You To Take Advantage Of Free Check-up

The Matt Klein specialized auto service shop is now equipped with latest and most modern Bear safety service to provide chassis alignment and the new Bear Dy-Na-Mic wheel balancer. The Bear equipment will straighten motor vehicle frames and axles, correct the axle caster, camber, toe-in and turning radius. Frames and axles are aligned and straightened cold.

A precision service, this equipment will align all auto front ends, including all knee-action types. Matt Klein's new equipment will stop shimmying, hard steering, tire wearing and wandering of a car or truck.

There's no need to endanger lives and increase the cost of car operation. A Bear check-up now may bring corrections which give the best driving conditions. This free service today may prevent an accident tomorrow. There is no charge involved unless work is performed on the car or truck. Estimates will be given without any obligation, if troubles are encountered.

Experts Handle Work
Factory-trained experts are in charge of the Matt Klein chassis alignment department. They will demonstrate this precision equipment and show how a driver can obtain operating economy and safety. Remember, in order to get the best driving conditions, an auto body must be in line.

It is not necessary to have an accident to get a cut out of line. Worn bushings or hitting a curb or obstruction may cause this trouble. Straightening and aligning is set up according to factory specifications. Axles are not removed to carry out this work.

Tracks on which this work is done are long enough to permit handling of any passenger car, bus or truck. After the front end has been straightened wheels are corrected on the Bear wheel balancer.

Increase Tire Wear
Here an ingenious device increases tire mileage 20 to 50 percent. One can drive without wheel shimmy, jiggle, tramp, wandering or vibration. This means that you can drive a safe car at any speed.

Vacationers Find Renewed Interest At Placencia

Here are three views of beautiful Lake Placencia, one of the most popular recreation centers in the district.

With cottages at the lake, many people enjoy summer-long vacations, commuting to their work and back, and spending glorious week-ends at this pleasure spot.

Lot owners are increasing steadily. This group not only has access to all privileges of the park, but also jointly own the fishing rights. All fishing regulations are made by the lot owners themselves.

These privileges, of course, do not apply to others, which undoubtedly accounts for the big catches made each season of both large and small-mouthed bass, croppies, bluegills and catfish.

Although the park has every facility for the picnicker, the lake cottagers are aside to themselves, with privacy the rule.

PARIS CLEANERS PLYMOUTH SALE STRESS VALUE RECORD BROKEN

Modern Machinery, Well-Trained Personnel Mark Service Week Ending June 29 Sets New All-Time High For Company

Value is the important thing, whether it's in having your hat cleaned or investing in a new home. The seller generally sets the price and in honest merchandising contracts to deliver full value for that figure. By so doing, he not only performs a service for the buyer but also builds business for himself because satisfied customers generally find their way back.

The Paris Cleaners, in business here for many years, have left no stone unturned in their efforts to put every ounce of value possible into their service and that they have been successful is seen in the way their business has grown, steadily and surely, throughout this period.

Operating their own plant right here in Salem, they have put value into their service first of all by possessing and using nothing but the finest and most up-to-date machinery and equipment.

Next, their personnel is in the dry cleaning business because that is their business. They have received training and experience over a long period of years.

The two factors spell value of the highest type. The person who desires value uses the Paris Cleaners' service consistently.

For the week ending June 29, Plymouth sales of commercial cars and passenger vehicles reached an all-time high in the company's 12-year history. It was announced today by D. S. Eddins, president of Plymouth division of Chrysler corporation.

During this one week period, more than 19,000 new Plymouth passenger and commercial units were delivered at retail by dealers throughout the country, Eddins announced. Sales report to the factory during the past four weeks have shown a strong upturn, he pointed out, and for four successive weeks total sales have exceeded the previous week as well as running considerably ahead of the corresponding periods a year ago.

The new high of more than 19,000 sales in one week's time this year compares with 8,956 deliveries in the same period of 1939, and is the largest single week since June 27, 1936, when Plymouth established its previous record for new car sales.

The Smith Garage, Althouse Motors and Harris Garage, local Plymouth dealers, report they have contributed their quotas to the total sales for this period.

SMOOTH TEAMWORK HELPS SALEM RIDERS WIN

ZELIENOPLE, PA., LOSES TO SALEM POLOISTS AGAIN

Pennsylvanians Defeated 13-9 In Polo League Game Here

Teamwork paid dividends for the up-and-coming Salem Polo club yesterday.

Working together better than they have in any other game this season, the red-shirted Salem riders turned back the Old Furnace club of Zelienople, Pa., 13 to 9 Sunday, scoring their second win over the western Pennsylvania team and their fourth victory of the season.

Take Early Lead

A five-goal spurt in the second chukker sent the Salem poloists in front early in the game, giving them a lead which they never relinquished. Zelienople was at least two goals in the rear in the last four periods after falling three goals behind in the second chukker.

Counting goals in every chukker, the Salem club outscored Zelienople in three of the six periods and blanked the Pennsylvanians in the fourth and sixth chukkers.

The Salem riders started slowly, encountering difficulty with their hitting as they held Zelienople even in the first chukker, but in the second period they took their stride, outscoring Zelienople five goals to two to take a 6-3 lead.

The Pennsylvania club sliced Salem's advantage from three goals to two in the third chukker, leaving Salem on the long end of an 8-6 score at half time.

Blanking the Old Furnace club in the fourth period, Salem counted two goals to increase its lead from 8-6 to 10-6. Zelienople again cut Salem's lead to two goals in the fifth period, but the Salem poloists came back in the sixth chukker to again boost their advantage to four goals by outscoring Zelienople, two goals to none.

Team Play Helps

J. B. (Pete) Votaw, Jim Pidgeon and Will Smith led Salem scoring, but their goals were responsible to fine team play rather than any great display of individual brilliance. Votaw counted four goals, while Pidgeon and Smith rang up three apiece. Smith, riding an old favorite mount, Conchita, for the first time of the season, was hitting better than he has in any other game.

An argument between Referee Jack Hendricks and Zelienople players over a foul ruling threatened to halt the game in the fifth chukker. The difficulty was ironed out when Referee Hendricks, after refusing to withdraw the foul, took over the umpire's duties and permitted Lawrence Yates to referee the game. Yates did not enforce the foul ruling.

Failure To Hit In Pinches Sends Lake Placidia Down To Defeat

Failing to hit in the pinches, Lake Placidia's semi-pro baseball club dropped a 3-to-1 decision to Bridgeport's top-ranking Bi-State league team at the lake diamond yesterday.

Don Hannon held Bridgeport to five hits and struck out nine batters, but the Lakers were unable to pull the game out of the fire for him.

Placidia took the lead with one run in the sixth, but fell behind when Bridgeport counted two runs in the seventh. The Bridgeports added another run in the eighth.

CAPLAN GAINS CLOSE WIN IN GOLF TOURNEY

Defeats Judge One-Up In Finals Of Gibson Tournament

The championship of the C. C. Gibson Memorial tournament at the Salem Golf club passed from the possession of Dr. R. T. Holzbach into the hands of Att'y Max Caplan yesterday as the par-busting Salem lawyer carved out a 1-up decision over Vincent Judge in the 36-hole finals of the tournament.

Firing nine-hole rounds of 39, 37, 34 and 38 and allowing Judge three strokes handicap on each round, Caplan punched out the victory on the last hole after the two finalists came up to the 36th tee all even.

Leads In Morning

Caplan was 2-up on Judge at the end of the morning round of 18 holes and remained in the lead in the afternoon round until the 32nd hole when Judge evened the match after winning three straight holes.

Caplan took the 33rd hole to go 1-up and halved the 34th before Judge won the 35th to even the match as it reached the final hole.

Caplan carded a par 33 on the 36th hole to win when Judge took a bogey 4.

Although pressed closely throughout the match, Caplan was never on the short end of the score for any length of time. He was one down to Judge four times during the first nine holes, but evened the match on the 10th and did not fall behind again during the 36-hole play-off.

Caplan held his biggest advantage during the afternoon round, going 3-up on Judge twice in the last 18 holes. Judge, however, rallied each time to slice Caplan's margin.

Consistent Golf

Judge played consistent golf to remain close to Caplan, shooting rounds of 42, 44, 38 and 40. His handicap helped him win six holes and halve four.

Caplan shot his best golf on the third trip over the nine-hole course, bettering par by one stroke as he carded a 34. He had eight pars and one birdie in this round.

Cards of two finalists follow:

DODGER MOUND ACE GAINS HIS 200TH VICTORY

Fitzsimmons Joins Baseball's Select List Of Pitchers

By JUDSON BAILEY

Fred Fitzsimmons, old and fat but still doing tricks with his knuckleball lined up behind the great pitchers of baseball today with the 20th victory on his 16-year major league career.

The annals of the game show only 45 hurlers, fellows like Cy Young, Walter Johnson, Grover Alexander, Christy Mathewson and similar all-time heroes, who have won 200 or more contests. Only four besides Fitzsimmons are now active in the big show—Lefty Grove, Red Ruffing, Ted Lyons and Carl Hubbell.

Fitz made a fighting entrance into this select group by pitching

BRITISH READY, SAYS CHURCHILL

Expects Invasion, Awaits
Opportunity To Take
The Offensive

The loss of one R. A. F. plane was acknowledged for Saturday's action.

A "few enemy aircraft" dropped bombs in southeast and southwest England last night with "slight injury" to one person, the government announced.

In a daylight raid today by a single German plane one person was reported killed and several injured in a southeast English town.

Sub Believed Lost

In the war at sea, the admiralty reported the 670-ton submarine Shark was "overdue and must be presumed lost." She was the 10th British submarine lost in the war.

The admiralty yesterday announced loss of the 1,350-ton destroyer Escort with two of her seamen.

As to the date of the German attack, Churchill said, "perhaps it will come next week. Perhaps it will never come."

To which the German radio replied last night:

"We wonder if Mr. Churchill is counting buttons on his waistcoat when he said that. The answer is: Not this week, neither next and certainly not never, but very definitely some time."

here. So was Representative Rayburn of Texas, the house floor leader, who like Jones is a close friend of Garner.

Of this group, only Senator Wheeler of Montana—like Garner and Farley a presidential aspirant—removed himself from the vice presidential race. Wheeler said he would rather be senator than doze away his time with a gavel in his hand.

He was devoting much of his energy to obtaining a strong "non-intervention" foreign policy plank in the party platform. Early today he reached an agreement with four other senators on a declaration which they planned to submit to the resolutions committee.

The plank, which the group announced would be made the subject of a floor fight if necessary, would pledge the party never to use the nation's armed forces for aggression or to engage in wars in Europe or Asia.
